

Sedimentation and loss of energy potential within 20 years

More sediments, less energy: The Kalivac reservoir would constantly fill up with sediments, leading to a 2% loss of energy potential each year. After 20 years, the power plant would lack 40% of its original capacity.